

Tasglannan / Archives

An Iodhlann

<http://www.aniodhlann.org.uk>

Tiree's Historical Centre – a collection of old letters, emigrant lists, maps, reports, photographs, stories and songs.

Dualchas

(01478) 613857

Skye and Lochalsh Museums service, based in Portree - the collection contains archaeology, archives and social history, including sound recordings.

The MacKay Country Archive

<http://www.mackaycountry.com>

Since 2004 Mackay Country staff and volunteers have assembled an impressive archive relating to local places, people and stories. This resource includes old maps, over two thousand photos, oral history recordings and an inspiring range of books, articles and other documents about the area.

Mull Historical and Archaeological Society

<http://www.mull-historical-society.co.uk>

The society aims to promote and develop an interest in Scottish History and traditions with particular reference to the Island of Mull. The society has a collection of sound recordings, some of which are available to listen to on their website.

National Library of Scotland

<http://www.nls.uk>

The National Library of Scotland in Edinburgh contains a music catalogue and index of fiddle, clàrsach and bagpipe music as well as Gaelic and Scots song. It also contains an index listing of tunes and programme titles from radio and TV.

Pròiseact Thiriodh

<http://www.tiriodh.ed.ac.uk>

Pròiseact Thiriodh is a short-term project to develop and demonstrate technologies for providing access to an online, searchable database of audio recordings made over the previous 40 years on the island of Tiree.

Seanchas Ìle

<http://www.seanchas-ile.net>

Islay's Folklore Project – contains over 60 hours of material recorded from Islay Gaelic speakers since 2005. A selection of the recordings and transcriptions are on the website.

Taigh Chearsabhaigh

<http://www.taigh-chearsabhaigh.org>

North Uist's Museum and Arts Centre – holds over 200 oral recordings collected in the last 10 years as well as a photographic archive.

Taigh-tasgaidh Chill Donnain

<http://www.kildonanmuseum.co.uk>

The Kildonan Centre in South Uist is a heritage and cultural amenity which includes a museum and archive room dedicated to the memory of Margaret Fay Shaw.

Tobar an Dualchais / Kist o' Riches

<http://www.tobarandualchais.co.uk>

<http://www.celtscot.ed.ac.uk>

Tobar an Dualchais aims to digitise, catalogue and disseminate Gaelic and Scots sound recordings online. The online archive will consist of recordings from the School of Scottish Studies, the BBC Gaelic department and The John Lorne Campbell Archive in Canna.

Tasglannan Air Loidhne / Online Archives

Am Baile

<http://www.ambaile.org.uk>

An online archive of photographs, illustrations, rare books and documents as well as short films, audio clips, interactive games and comics. The website is entirely bilingual in Gaelic and English.

Gaelstream

<http://gaelstream.stfx.ca>

A digital resource of material relating predominantly to Nova Scotia's living Gaelic tradition.

Hebridean Connections

<http://www.hebrideanconnections.com>

A new website containing over 40,000 records relating to the genealogy, history, traditions, culture and archaeology of the Western Isles, all material is drawn from the Comunn Eachdraidh collections.

The North East Folklore Archive

<http://www.nefa.net>

An online resource established by Aberdeenshire Council for the study of culture and traditions in the North East of Scotland. Contains sound recordings as well as information on local traditions.

SCRAN

<http://www.scran.ac.uk>

Scran is an online learning resource base with over 360,000 images and multimedia files from museums, galleries, archives and the media.